The Danger of Nation-States and Lack of Lawful Standing

Constitutional Fidelity, Structural Challenges, and the Imperative of Lawful Unity

The Republic for the united States of America (RuSA) stands firmly upon the 1789 Constitution as the Supreme Law of the Land and upon 1 Statute 50 of 1789, the constitutional version of the Northwest Ordinance of 1787, as the lawful mechanism for re-inhabiting the vacated states. Anyone asserting that the states still remain fully de jure, having no territorial status and therefore do not require the re-inhabitation process, directly contradicts this Republic's foundational framework and intentionally undermines the Republic's lawful standing. In actuality, these people are accidentally entering the corporate/legal jurisdiction, and their actions can be interpreted as unlawfully claiming the seal and flag of the current de facto corporate state entity, making them open to prosecution by the de facto jurisdiction.

The perpetual Union affirmed in Texas v. White (74 U.S. 700, 1869) does not prevent the vacancy of de jure state governments through corporate usurpation that began with the District of Columbia Organic Act of 1871 (16 Statute 419). That corporate transformation gradually supplanted sovereign de jure public offices with de facto corporate entities, leaving the original constitutional structures abandoned, without the informed consent of the American People as required by law. The Republic's recognition of this abandonment does not deny the states' historical existence or boundaries; instead, this is the obvious recognition that the de jure republican governments are non-existent, requiring restoration through the only constitutional pathway that the Founders provided for lands without functioning republican governments- the territorial and statehood process of 1 Statute 50.

Claims that the 2010 re-inhabitation and 2012 public notice constituted a complete "reset" that restored the states to immediate de jure status ignore the obvious problem: the People (force majeure) were not involved. Attempting to represent the entire state with a mere handful of patriots is a slap in the face to the Constitution and the founding fathers. The best lawful way to reseat the abandoned republican governments is to follow the deliberate, step-by-step design of the Northwest Ordinance/1 Statute 50. That statute, signed by President George Washington and affirmed as constitutional in Strader v. Graham (51 U.S. 82, 1851), established a clear transitional framework: interim governance of the territory by presidential appointments, organized growth of the territory through electors, and eventual admission as a state on equal footing. The Republic follows this exact process to ensure every state is re-seated lawfully, with a minimum of 30,000 conscientious electors confirming the People's consent before the first permanent elections. Any attempt to bypass this structured restoration by

The People of the free States in Union do not now, nor have we ever supported any intent of overthrowing the UNITED STATES municipal corporation acting as a government. We are not "Sovereign Citizens" as defined by Homeland Security. We are peaceful, non-violent and advocate peaceful, non-violent methods to restore and maintain a lawful, constitutional republican form of governance. We would never advocate or take part in the kidnapping of, or violence against any public official; nor do we affiliate with any hate groups; nor would we participate in any terrorist attack against the U.S. corporate government or any public or private official. We love our fellow man, America, its People and the Republic for which our flag stands. We observe the greatest commandment, namely, that we love God and Love our fellow man. We believe that the rule of law should be applied justly and equally to all, both small and great without regard to race, gender, color, financial status, handicap, or religious affiliation. In short, we believe in treating our fellow man as we would like to be treated. We show tolerance and respect toward corporate law enforcement officers even when those officers, through lack of knowledge, may violate or infringe upon our un-a-lien-able guaranteed liberties. We are not tax protesters or the like. We believe in conducting our commerce and the business of Republic governance in the open, not in secret meetings. We hold that the People intend to research actual Law as well as applicable case Law. We intend on attending as many seminars, meetings and lectures as possible given by law professors, lawyers and the like in order to learn the proper interpretation of law. We are willing to assist any local, state or national leaders, such as presidents, governors, congressmen, senators or representatives in coming to a clearer understanding of their constitutional duties and obligations to the American People.

asserting direct ad-hoc re-inhabitation removes the Republic from the most lawful path available to restoration. It would result in fragmented authority, confusion among the People, and violation of the Republic's declared unity under the Constitution.

Again, claiming that the states are already fully de jure and do not need re-inhabitation is a form of "nation-state" thinking that the Republic has explicitly rejected. These types of claims are a direct threat to the Republic interim government. Public Notice RR950286827USA (May 2025) warns that such independent claims create parallel, unauthorized structures that divide supporters, undermine lawful standing, and sow discord- the very "mortal disease" of popular governments that Madison described in Federalist No. 10. The Republic's current process is the only path that honors the American People and the perpetual Union while lawfully restoring each state's republican governmental form under Article IV, Section 4.

By promoting independent or splinter structures outside the unified territorial process, they repeat the very same errors that led the Founders to replace the Articles of Confederation with the Constitution. These actions lack lawful validity and are intended to cause internal division. The failure of the restoration effort itself- the "mortal disease" of popular governments described by James Madison in Federalist No. 10. The Joint Resolution to Affirm Unity in an Interim Government (Joint Resolution by Congress 20110705-01) is an explicit warning against any division that would hinder the collective re-inhabitation, declaring the Republic "one indivisible Republic under God" and calling all members to stand united in the lawful process.

Similarly, the argument that the Republic cannot function without a fully seated Senate to ratify states reverses the constitutional order. The Senate is restored as states are re-seated through the territorial process, not the reverse. Under 1 Statute 50, the President appoints provisional officers with Senate consent, allowing continuity of government while the states are rebuilt starting from the county level. Once a territory reaches the 30,000-electoral threshold, it holds elections for its own representatives and senators, who then participate in the national Republic Senate. This mirrors the historical admission of territories and fulfills Article IV, Section 4's guarantee of a republican form of government for every state. The Joint Resolution by Congress in this Republic (July 5, 2011) explicitly affirms this unified, collective process, declaring that "the Republic for the united States of America is one indivisible Republic under God." This resolution rejects any splinter or independent actions that would create discord. In short, the Senate is restored as states are re-seated through the territorial process- not the other way around. This ensures every step is lawful, orderly, and rooted in the consent of the People, fulfilling Article IV, Section 4's guarantee of a republican form of government for every state.

The Republic's 2016 Implementation of the Northwest Ordinance / 1 Statute 50 was not an executive decree substituting for legislation. It was the lawful administrative adaptation of a standing statute (1 Statute 50) by the interim Republic government, unanimously supported across all branches at the time of its adoption after 3 years of research and review. In effect, it was an acknowledgement of constitutional laws that were already on the books. It provides the only documented, historically grounded checklist for re-seating vacated states while preserving the separation of powers and republican principles. Challenges that demand unilateral structural corrections or assert that the Republic must operate under a different framework without following this process constitute the very discord the Founders warned against in Federalist No. 10. Such positions are incompatible with the Republic's declared foundation and place the proponent outside the lawful jurisdiction of the Republic, rendering them incapable of representing the People within it.

The Republic remains steadfast: we neither promote nor condone unlawful conduct. The re-inhabitation of the states through the territorial process of 1 Statute 50 is the sole lawful path to restoration. It honors the perpetual Union, protects the People's sovereignty, and ensures that every state is re-seated on equal footing with full republican form of government. Those who deviate from this process are actively working against the foundational principles of this Republic. The Republic's actions remain peaceful, lawful, and constitutionally grounded, focused on the orderly return of governance to We the People.

As we go forward, while also looking back, we totally expect the corporate establishment to send some of their best and brightest infiltrators in order to sow discord from within. We are surrounded by a horde of luciferians intent on preventing the American People from moving forward as we restore what our fore Fathers gave us, a Biblically based Republic. You can expect these infiltrators to speak with authority and demand respect and to unlawfully push the limits of their delegated authority in order to widen their reach into Republic membership. They have been professionally trained to do so. We should also expect them to claim connections with the military, “white hats” and the like, to push their agendas.

Think of it like this: They will offer up all kinds of “bait” to Republic members, hoping that some will get caught. In the most recent example, the target was stalwart Christians. Once the infiltrators gather a group to themselves, then they are able to steer them down the road to destruction. Whether the bait is like we have spoken about above or some dire issue in “law” that they put forward, their goal is to continue to sow discord and stifle the growth of the Republic. Please bear these things in mind as you interface with other members of the Republic, and don’t hesitate to report things that smell like rotten bait to leadership.

Declaration

We, the People of the Republic for the united States of America, unequivocally reject all unlawful conduct. The actions of individuals who pursue nation-state agendas or independent structures outside the lawful framework of the Republic are acting outside their authority and do not reflect the mission or jurisdiction of this Republic. Our mission remains steadfastly peaceful, lawful, and grounded in the 1789 Constitution and the Northwest Ordinance as codified in 1 Statute 50.

The infiltrator narratives, advocating independent nation-states within U.S. boundaries, mirror Civil War secessionists. They risk liability under the Insurrection Act of 1807 \(10 U.S.C. §§ 251–255\) for the felony of seditious conspiracy (18 U.S.C. § 2384), punishable by up to twenty years’ imprisonment for conspiring to oppose lawful authority, as warned in the original notice (Declaration, Public Notice RR950286800RUSA). RUSA’s de jure system offers protection only to those acting inside its lawful framework.

Former members who have willfully defied the Republic’s constitutional framework- particularly by rejecting the lawful re-inhabitation process under 1 Statute 50 and Article II- are attempting to fracture the unity essential to our restoration. By acting outside our de jure system, they forfeit its protections and align with de facto jurisdiction. Such conduct undermines the very principles of republican governance that the Republic seeks to restore and is incompatible with the oath to support and defend the Constitution. The Republic for the united States of America will continue its mission with fidelity to the Constitution, 1 Statute 50, and the consent of the governed, calling all faithful patriots to stand united in the lawful re-inhabitation of our free States.

For further clarification, consult foundational documents at www.republicfortheunitedstatesofamerica.org, completely distinguishing our mission from the U.S. Corporation under 28 U.S.C. § 3002(15)(A). Unity under the Constitution is not optional- it is the indispensable condition for the successful restoration of the Republic our Founders envisioned.

God Bless America,

Done outside the City of Washington, this twentieth day of February, in the year of our Lord two thousand twenty six, and of the Independence of the United States of America the two hundred forty ninth.
